Romance Scams Put Millions of Adults 50-plus at Risk: Here is What You Need to Know

New AARP research highlights growing financial and emotional threats for older adults and offers guidance to help people protect themselves

AARP Press Team

Published February 03, 2026

WASHINGTON—Romance scams are on the rise, and new research from AARP shows millions of older adults are being targeted online. Nearly 1 in 10 adults age 50 and older – that's 11 million Americans – have made what they believed to be a romantic connection online and were ultimately asked for financial help or encouraged to invest in cryptocurrency, leading to often severe financial and emotional distress.

Adults ages 50 to 64 are especially at risk, receiving fake solicitations at more than double the rate of those 65 and older (13 percent versus 5 percent). About 16 percent of adults 50 and older, roughly 1 in 6, say they or someone they know has had money stolen through a romance scam.

“Romance scams can affect anyone. Smart, financially stable, socially active adults are all targets. Being informed, knowing the warning signs, and reporting suspicious activity are the best ways to protect yourself and your money,” said Amy Nofziger, Senior Director of Victim Support, Fraud Watch Network.

Despite the scale of the problem, reporting remains low. According to our survey, more than half (55 percent) of adults who lost money said they never reported it, and among those who do report, only 26% go to law enforcement and 23% contact their bank or credit union—indicating major gaps in consumer reporting pathways.

FRAUD ALERTS

Most adults believe they would report a loss—90% say they would—but actual reporting behavior shows a vast disconnect that leaves criminals unchallenged.

Nearly half of adults 50 and older (45 percent) say they are not knowledgeable about romance scam tactics. Shame, along with misconceptions about victims such as being too trusting or lonely, is the primary reason people don't report, leaving criminals free to operate.

Where Criminals Operate

- Nearly one in 10 adults ages 50 and older (9%) have had an online romantic connection in which the person asked for money or cryptocurrency, with adults ages 50 to 64 twice as exposed as those 65 and older.
- About one in six say they or someone they know has lost money in a romance scam.
- The majority of respondents said they met the person on a dating app or social media.
- Reporting is low: Among those who lost money, 55% did not report the loss anywhere.
- Knowledge gap: Forty-five percent of adults 50 and older say they are not knowledgeable about romance scam tactics.

Ways to Protect Yourself

- If you realize that a relationship is a lie, stop contact immediately and save everything connected to the crime, such as messages and receipts.
- Report the crime to local law enforcement or the FBI's IC3.gov.
- Contact your financial institution to see if there is any way to get your money back.
- Call the AARP Fraud Watch Network Helpline at 877-908-3360 Monday through Friday 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Eastern Time for guidance and support.

FRAUD ALERTS

Tax Filing Season and IRS Scams

If you get an email, text, letter or call that claims to be from the IRS — or if you see social media posts about how to get a big refund — it might be a scam or bad tax advice.

What to know

An email, call or message could be a scam if it:

- Is unexpected
- Rushes or threatens you
- Offers refunds, credits or deductions
- Pressures for personal or financial information
- Tells you to pay now "or else"

How to know it's the IRS

Report a scam

If you were scammed, had your information stolen or suspect fraud, there are actions you can take.

Report fraud, a scam or identity theft

Take steps if you were scammed

⊖ Seniors

Scammers call senior citizens with claims of tax owed or refunds. They may:

- Impersonate the IRS, Social Security Administration or Medicare
- Claim problems, refunds or prizes
- Pressure for immediate action
- Ask for payment by wire transfer, gift cards or cryptocurrency

Hang up if you get a suspicious call.

⊖ Social media

Tax advice

Bad tax advice on social media can mislead you about credit or refund eligibility. Influencers may convince you to lie on tax forms or incorrectly suggest the IRS is keeping a tax credit secret from you. Social media posts may connect you with scammers.
