Police Warn Drivers About “Sliding” Theft Happening at Gas Stations

A new type of auto-related theft is catching many drivers off guard at gas stations. Police are warning motorists to stay alert as criminals exploit one of the most common habits drivers have when refueling their vehicles.

The crime is known as “sliding.” It occurs when a thief quietly opens the passenger door of a vehicle while the driver is distracted at the gas pump. In many cases the driver is only a few feet away from the vehicle and does not realize the theft is happening.

The technique relies on a simple moment of distraction. Drivers typically park, turn off the car, step out, and begin pumping gas while leaving the opposite side of the vehicle unlocked. During this brief window, thieves approach from the passenger side and slide into the car to steal valuables.

Authorities say purses, backpacks, wallets, smartphones, and laptops left on seats are the most common targets.

FRAUD ALERTS

How the “Sliding” Theft Works

The crime is simple but effective. According to police, the typical scenario unfolds in several steps:

1. A driver pulls into a gas station and exits the vehicle to begin pumping fuel.
2. The vehicle remains unlocked while the driver stands next to the pump.
3. A suspect approaches the passenger side of the car.
4. The suspect quietly opens the door, reaches inside, and grabs valuables from the seat.
5. The suspect quickly leaves before the driver notices.

In many cases, the theft takes only a few seconds.

Police say the tactic works because drivers are focused on refueling their vehicles, watching the fuel pump display, or checking their phones while waiting. It also works best with SUVs due to their elevated ride height blocking the owner's view.

Women Often Targeted

FRAUD ALERTS

Investigators say women are frequently targeted in these incidents. One reason is that handbags or backpacks are commonly placed on the front passenger seat while driving.

When drivers exit the vehicle to pump gas, these items remain clearly visible through the window.

For thieves, this creates an easy opportunity.

Police say suspects often watch gas stations and look for drivers who leave valuables in plain sight.

The risk can increase when drivers are also managing children in the car or are distracted by other tasks.

Areas Where Incidents Are Occurring

Law enforcement reports that the crime has appeared in several urban areas across the United States in recent years. Investigators in Nashville say the tactic has recently been reported in neighborhoods such as Midtown and Southeast Nashville.

Gas stations attached to grocery stores or convenience chains are common locations for these thefts.

According to police statistics cited in the report, authorities investigated more than 6,000 robberies over a five-year period, with a small percentage occurring at gas stations and convenience stores.

Although the share is relatively small, police say the crimes are particularly concerning because they happen in public places during everyday activities.

FRAUD ALERTS

Safety Advice for Drivers

Police say preventing sliding theft is simple if drivers remain aware of their surroundings and take a few precautions.

Officers recommend the following steps:

- Always turn off the vehicle and lock all doors before stepping away to pump gas.
- Keep purses, bags, and electronics out of sight, preferably in the trunk.
- Stay aware of your surroundings while refueling.
- Avoid using your phone while pumping gas.
- Remove earbuds or headphones so you can hear activity around you.
- If something feels suspicious, stop pumping and get back into your locked vehicle.

Even a quick door lock can eliminate the opportunity for a thief.

A Crime of Opportunity

Police stress that sliding theft is rarely a random act. Criminals often watch drivers and wait for the moment someone leaves a vehicle unlocked with valuables visible.

Because the crime happens quickly and quietly, victims often do not realize anything was stolen until they get back into the car.

Authorities say awareness is the best defense. Drivers who take a moment to lock their vehicles and stay alert while fueling can dramatically reduce the risk of becoming a victim.

Fuel stops remain part of everyday driving, so motorists should treat gas stations the same way they would treat any busy public place. Staying alert and securing your vehicle can prevent a quick stop from turning into a costly mistake.

Tax Filing Season and IRS Scams

If you get an email, text, letter or call that claims to be from the IRS — or if you see social media posts about how to get a big refund — it might be a scam or bad tax advice.

What to know

An email, call or message could be a scam if it:

- Is unexpected
- Rushes or threatens you
- Offers refunds, credits or deductions
- Pressures for personal or financial information
- Tells you to pay now "or else"

How to know it's the IRS

Report a scam

If you were scammed, had your information stolen or suspect fraud, there are actions you can take.

Report fraud, a scam or identity theft

Take steps if you were scammed

⊖ Seniors

Scammers call senior citizens with claims of tax owed or refunds. They may:

- Impersonate the IRS, Social Security Administration or Medicare
- Claim problems, refunds or prizes
- Pressure for immediate action
- Ask for payment by wire transfer, gift cards or cryptocurrency

Hang up if you get a suspicious call.

⊖ Social media

Tax advice

Bad tax advice on social media can mislead you about credit or refund eligibility. Influencers may convince you to lie on tax forms or incorrectly suggest the IRS is keeping a tax credit secret from you. Social media posts may connect you with scammers.
